MESSAGE

Rakesh Asthana,
Commissioner, Delhi Police

Greetings!

The month of June was bustling with a wide range of activities for Delhi Police. We aim to act as a catalyst for a healthier and secure life for all residents of the city. We celebrated World Blood Donor Day to commemorate the blood warriors of our force who routinely donate blood across Delhi-NCR to anyone in need. I am glad to announce that we adopted their blood donation initiative 'Jeevan Dayini', as a welfare measure for the general public. Giving blood is equivalent to giving life!

We also celebrated International Yoga Day, promoting a holistic lens to well-being. The day was also celebrated across all districts to inculcate a healthy way of life. As an extension to this, International Day Against Drug Abuse and Illicit Trafficking was also celebrated by Delhi Police. Our efforts to crackdown drug trafficking in the city were brought to the forefront.

In order to create an equitable society, our force is committed to empower women and break all gender barriers. Delhi Police organised a summer camp under our special initiative 'Sashakti' to equip women with self defence techniques.

Delhi Police, Madalsa Foundation and PHD Chamber of Commerce and Industry signed an MoU to install sanitary vending machines & separate eco-friendly disposal machines in various women's washrooms at the Police Headquarters & Police Stations.

We are also upgrading ourself as a tech-savvy force with strong logistics and cutting-edge technologies. An MoU was signed between Delhi Police & IIT Delhi to pave the way for new technology which will help in finding solutions to future challenges.

Policing is a vital tool and key enabler for obtaining peace, security, development and general well-being of society. Our aim is to develop a long-lasting bond with the people, who are an equal stakeholder in maintaining law and order.

I sincerely hope you like this edition of 'Kissa Khaki Ka' and find it engaging.
